Forecast For Southwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Tuesday 15 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Sunny spells and feeling very warm in the east.

Today:
A dry start with variable amounts of cloud through the morning. Lengthy sunny spells becoming more widespread during the afternoon and feeling very warm, especially towards the east. Maximum temperature 25 deg C (77 deg F).

Tonight:
Remaining dry with sunny spells into the evening. Overnight, plenty of clear spells however turning cloudier in the far west and into the Bristol Channel with some drizzle at times. Minimum temperature 7 deg C (45 deg F).

Wednesday:
A generally dry start with sunny spells, however cloud and perhaps some drizzle lingering in the far west. Cloud increasing for all later, with the risk of heavy, thundery showers. Maximum temperature 26 deg C (79 deg F).

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Heavy showers clearing through Thursday morning with sunny spells developing later. More heavy, thundery rain looks to affect eastern areas on Friday, drier further west. Sunny spells on Saturday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.